ASSA ABLOY

Make sure your entrances are reliable and problem free

An interruption-free work day keeps business moving

When your retail store manages a range of different types of stock – from garden furniture to groceries – and has limited storage space, you need back entrances and interior entrances that will ensure smooth and efficient delivery. All entrances need to be reliable, cost-effective and support the look of your store.

Without entrances that are optimal for your store, you could risk:

- Unnecessary downtime
- Supply hold ups
- Lost customers

Doors that help your store run efficiently

High-performance interior doors ease congestion between the stock room and the shelves

Ensuring smooth transitions between the stock room and the shop floor requires resilient doors that can work fast under pressure. ASSA ABLOY high-performance doors can work fast all day long, and withstand the inevitable wear and tear of stock passing through.

Your retail support team

Our teams of architect consultants, sales advisors and service technicians can offer expert advice throughout the entire building life cycle

From high-performance interior doors to robust industrial doors and rugged pedestrian doors, we have entrance systems for every opening

Save valuable space

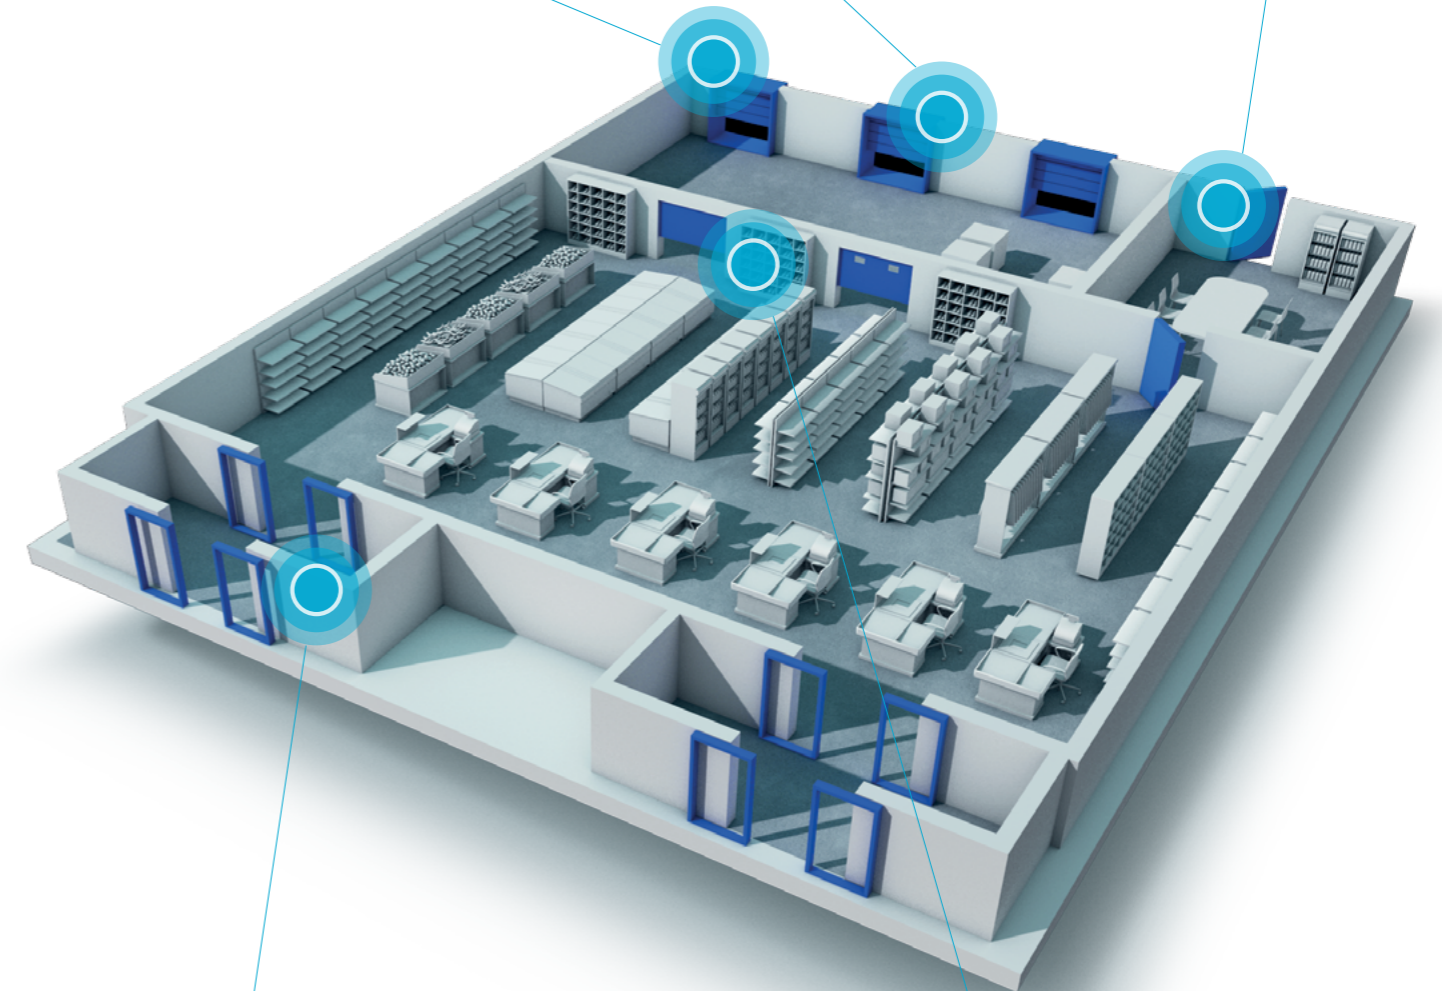

Doors that use less space ensure there is more room available for stock – overhead sectional doors only use space above the door

Reduce energy loss

Loading and unloading is a critical time for losing energy, but with an efficient dock shelter or a full loadhouse this can be kept to a minimum

Secure staff access

Staff need a secure and safe back entrance. Automatic swing doors with access control keep the back of your store secure and give staff privacy

Don't let a bump shut your store

Hard-wearing, sturdy automatic entrances ensure your store can withstand the wear and tear of a heavy flow of customers and shopping trolleys, and a vestibule arrangement gives you greater energy control

Ensure speed and safety

Between warehouse and shop floor, high-performance doors keep goods moving seamlessly while ensuring staff and customer safety by keeping unloading equipment separate from public areas
